New Y-dna Insights on the "Lost Ten Tribes of Israel"

by Floyd R. Cox (12-01-2016)
1857 Version found HERE and HERE

Moses had told the Israelites that, after they entered the Promised Land (in 1407 BC as in TABLE 1), they should begin counting seven-year sabbaticals, and 49-year jubilees. In the fall of the seventh sabbatical (after 49 years) they would be allowed to return to their original settlement Joshua had given them when they first entered the Promised Land (Leviticus 25:8-16). The return would be in a jubilee year, whenever that happened to be. This jubilee begins on the 10th day of the seventh lunar month.

An Alternative Jubilee Cycle

After 14 Jubilees, ten of the 12 tribes (the House of Israel) were led captive from Palestine to Assyria in 721 BC (as in TABLE 1) and became known as the "lost ten tribes of Israel". These ten have split from the House of Judah in 931 BC, 30 sabbaticals before 721 BC. Josiah's reform began in 623 BC, that is, 98 years after the captivity in 721 BC.

According to The "Lost" Ten Tribes of Isreel... Found!, Steven M. Collins says that some members of each of the twelve tribes were in Jerusalem. This would have been in 623 BC, 98 years after the Assyrian captivity in 721 BC, (II Chron 34:8-9).

What was the occasion?

The lost book of Moses had been found in 623 BC, in the 18th year of king Josiah, and the Israelites responded by starting a new reform. They vowed to keep every word written in the book, including the sabbaticals and jubilees. The jubilee cycle would have begun that year, in 623 BC, and then repeat in 574 BC, as in TABLE 1 (as in Ezekiel 40:1).

As a result, this jubilee cycle is based upon Joshua, the Assyrian captivity cycle, and Josiah's reform.

Tribes of Israel That Remained

Collins also mentions other Israelites that voluntarily removed to areas belonging to the house of Judah in rejection of idol worship, child sacrificing and to observe holy days properly (II Chron 15:8-10).

Likewise, II Chronicles 30:1 also indicates that some of the house of Israel were not likely exiled to Assyria in 721 BC.

Collins says others of the house of Israel voluntarily removed from Palestine to an area east of the Black Sea and, as said, some voluntarily returned to Palestine in 623 BC, after becoming known as Scythians.

Ezekiel to Reach the House of Israel

49 years later, in 574 BC, after the first temple was destroyed, Ezekiel had a vision of a second temple with a New Jerusalem surrounded by all 12 tribes (as in Ezekiel 40:1 to 48:35). He was told to describe his vision to the house of Israel, and, if they will repent and be willing to return, they can expect to inherit a magnificent new kingdom.

The plan showed how great Jerusalem would become after Cyrus would capture Babylon in 539 BC, after Cyrus would allow the house of Israel and the house of Judah to return and be joined together as one nation (Ezek: 37:21-22). Cyrus' decree was for both Israel and Judah to return. But the plan was conditional. First they would need to repent and be willing to return.

As mentioned above, it seems logical that Ezekiel could have reached the house of Israel to show them the plans for replacing the first temple. Some of the ten tribes were in Jerusalem in 623 BC.

Nevertheless, many leaders of Messianic Movement often claim that Ezekiel never reached the 10 tribes of Israel. The promise was unconditional, they say, and the return never happened. The return in the future would eventually happen.

They say that Ezekiel was allegedly speaking about a future time after the Messiah returns, when the temple would be restored along with its Levites and sacrificial offerings in our future.

Time went on, and Esther was crowned over Persia in 527 BC, four jubilees before Alexander the Great visited Jerusalem in 331 BC, which was six jubilees before Herod the Great captured Jerusalem in 37 BC.

The Return after the Second Temple was Destroyed

The second temple was burned 98 + 7 years after 37 BC, and the Jews and other proselytes revolted against Rome in 132 AD thinking it was a jubilee year, and they wanted their land back. Not one Christian was likely among them

I have found at least ten times in which someone has set a date for the coming of the Messiah (or Christ's return) at the beginning of a jubilee year. These dates are posted HERE. Moses had told the Israelites that, after they entered the Promised Land, they should begin counting sabbaticals of seven years each, and, in the seventh sabbatical, in the fall, on the 10th day of the seventh lunar month, they would be allowed to return to their settlement, which Joshua had originally given them (Leviticus 25:8-16).

The Balfour Declaration

Moses also said that, in the fall of the 49th year, on the day of Atonement, those who had been driven from their land should return to their land Joshua had given their ancestors and expel other occupiers. This view seemed especially significant after the Balfour Declaration on November 2, 1917 described HERE. It allowed the Jews to return to their homeland in Israel.

It was commonly believed that, when the Messiah would come, they would return and take with them all of their proselytes, those who had joined their Messianic, Messianic Christian, and Hebrew Roots movements. This would include the Millerites, Adventists, Church of God Seventh Day and Mormans (who think they are modern-day Israelites).

The Messiah was to come to rule and draw His people back to Palestine, and this tempts us to expect the Messiah in a jubilee year... if only we knew just when this would be. Everyone seems to have his or her own dates.

Below are six Messianic Movements I've discovered, which are based upon what was believed to be a jubilee year at the time. The first four dates are described HERE.

Growing Interest in Cursing America

Skipping ahead about 2500 years, it seems reasonable to assume that, if the Messiah returns to put all nations under the authority of Jerusalem (perhaps under a resurrected King David), then the United States must come to an end.

Moreover, some claim that two tribes of Israelites were driven to the British Isles and the United States. This view suggests that Britain and America need to discover their lost Hebrew Roots and avoid living as cryptic Jews attending other non-Jewish churches. They should instead support some form of Christian Messianic Movement and become leaders with a non-Christian future, one that will restore the temple with its Levitical sacrifices and annual holy days. Until then Christianity is considered secondary and temporary until the Messiah.

This would also imply that American and British share the same Y-dna as the 12 tribes of Israel. But do they? Seems like a lot to swallow.

This Anglo-Israel view is not new. The idea was published as early as 1862 in The U.S. in Bible Prophecy, by F.E. Pitts, long before recent research in Y-dna was available.

Hebrew Roots Proselyting

A famous singer once said, "I've never met a Jew that didn't have a book to sell." Likewise, Christ said that the Jewish scribes would travel to (or send books to) the ends of the earth to make one proselyte like himself (Mat 23:15). There are certain people noted for selling snake oil, cure-alls, and trading something temporary for things that are permanent. There's a gullible sucker born every day. Israel traded a bowl of soup for Esau's entire inheritance.

For example, there's The Bible Code. It claims that every letter of every word in the Bible has been miraculously preserved since the time of Moses, but The Bible Code fails to mention it is based upon the Masoreh Text, which was preserved only with the consonants without the vowels. If in doubt that the code is valid, one must learn Hebrew or ask someone acquainted with Hebrew or Messianic Roots.

Likewise, Jonathan Cahn has written The Harbinger, which is about an alleged "secret to America's future". Another book, The Mystery of the Shemitah covers sabbatiticals in 2001, 2008 and 2015 AD. However, at the end of the book, he covers another entirely different 50-year jubilee cycle allegedly occurring in 1917, 1967 and 2017, a cycle which is not compatible with the jubilee cycle in 2001, 2008, 2015 and 2022 AD. Eventually, he will likely set another date for the coming of the Messiah based upon a jubilee in 2022 AD.

A Third Covenant?

In contrast, Apostles Peter and Paul spoke of another covenant in which there is a holy nation, a royal priesthood, spiritual kingdom and a chosen race made up of Christians allied with the Higher Realm, the Jerusalem above (Gal 4:22-30; I Pet 2:9). Sarah and her son, Isaac, had no "Messianic roots" branching from Hagar and her son, Ishmael. Paul considered his fleshly Israelitism as dung (Gal 3:26-29; Phil 3:38). Christianity destroys nationality.

There is no third covenant with modern Anglo-Israelites. There's only the old and new covenants. Those of the old covenant are allied with Jerusalem below, which is in bondage. These are earthly Zionists.

Evidence Against the U. S. and Britain Being Israelites

Several books were written on how the "Lost Ten Tribes" of Israelites left Assyria and traveled across northern Europe into the British Isles and America.

Steven M. Collins, in his 439-page book, The "Lost" Ten Tribes of Isreal... Found!, an abundance of words are spent on the Phoenician, Egyptian alliance with the house of Israel and how they dominated the seas for thousands of miles west of Carthage and Spain (that is, Iberia, Gibraltar, the Pillars of Hercules or Tarshish). These allegedly shared similar Semetic Languages. This Tarshish spoke Phoenician the language could not be the grandson of Noah mentioned in Genesis 10:4. He overlooks the idea that Tarshish's father was Javan, the father of the Greeks. The Greek language was combined with the Egyptian language on the Rosetta stone. The Phoenician language is similar to the Hebrew. These are likely in y-dna haplogroup J, J1 and J2. Details on German tribes are found HERE.

With this in mind, there seems to be a need to take a closer look at Noah's grandchildren, the sons of Japheth. "By these were the isles of the Gentiles divided..." These included Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech and Tiras, and the sons of Gomer are Askenaz, Riphath and Togarma, and the sons of Javan are Elisha, Tarshish, Kittim and Dodanim. Details on the tribes of Jepheth are found HERE. These are in the y-dna haplogroup R1b1. 80% of all Europeans are R1b1. The kings of Ireland, Scotland, Wales and England descend from the Tudor and Stewart surnames, which belong to R1b1 instead of J, J1 and J2. Details on kings of the British Isles are found HERE and HERE.

British Israelism neglects explaining how the descendants of Noah's son, Jepheth (haplogroup R1b1), could possibly be Semetic, descendants of Noah's son, Shem. Both could possibly become "white supremacist nations" or a "master race" (Gen 9:27).

Y-DNA Tools

Books on Anglo-Israelism were written long before we could collect and compare y-dna sequences (the y chromosome) passed down from grandfather to father to son and grandson. Now we can determine that the Norsemen (northern Europeans), the Danish, Normans, the Vikings, Scottish, Irish, Welsh and English were in haplogroup R1b1.

Now that we have these y-dna tools, the followers of this view now have to explain how those early inhabitants could be in haplogroup R1b1. If the Jews should match the other ten tribes, why are they in haplogroups J, J1 and J2 and not in R1b1?

Haplogroups change into other haplogroups as a result of mutations. In a simplistic view, haplogroup mutates and creates a branch called haplogroup B, and B develops a branch called

C, and C forms D. This continues down to J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, and R. Each haplogroup has sub groups. For instance, J has sub groups J1, J2, J2a, J2a4h, J2a4h, etc. R has sub groups R1, R1b, R1b1, etc. Whole groups, like the Vikings can be characterized as R1b1.

Phoenicians and Hebrews can be characterized as J1 or J2, but Vikings are not J1 or J2. Jews are not R1b1.

Earliest Haplogroup is A

Perhaps mutations take place to adjust to a new environment.

Even fungus mutates. If placed in a drought environment, it can go through many generations in only a few weeks and, in that amount of time, they can adjust to a new, very wet environment. Of course, humans don't mutate that quickly.

Since the Anglo-Israel Association believes that the Israelites were the Norsemen (northern Europeans), the Danish, Normans, the Vikings, Scottish, Irish, Welsh and English, they must also believe the Israelites were in haplogroup R1b1, which came after J, J1 and J2. Their solution? Simply turn the y-dna chart upside down as presented HERE and HERE as in the following chart, and explain that mutations cause losses in each haplogroup.

This suggests that life is not just adaptive but also creative. Does this suggest that dna can become more complex to adapt to the colder climates and become simpler when adjusting to hotter climates? Allegedly, mutations can create a loss within the dna structure making the sequence simpler. Perhaps others are blaming this loss on exposure to sunlight and radiation at the equator. This would allegedly show that new haplogroups are the result of degeneration, the result of mutations causing a reduction in genetic material and becoming simpler.

This suggests the opposite of evolution creating each haplogroup more complex implied in the standard, accepted view. More research is needed.

Nevertheless, I1, a simpler haplogroup, is found in only 6% of the Welsh, in northern Europe. Over 80% of Welsh are R1b. The next highest is I1 at only 6%.

Moreover, R1a and R2 are also found, not just in the north, but throughout Pakistan, India, Russia, the Poles, Ukrainians, Norwegians, the Vikings and Normans. Thus, they are of the most complex haplogroups. Therefore, it seems doubtful that the Israelites were ever R1b1. The middle East is mostly J, J1 and J2.

The Problem of Having Jewish Sephardic and Askenazi Y-dna

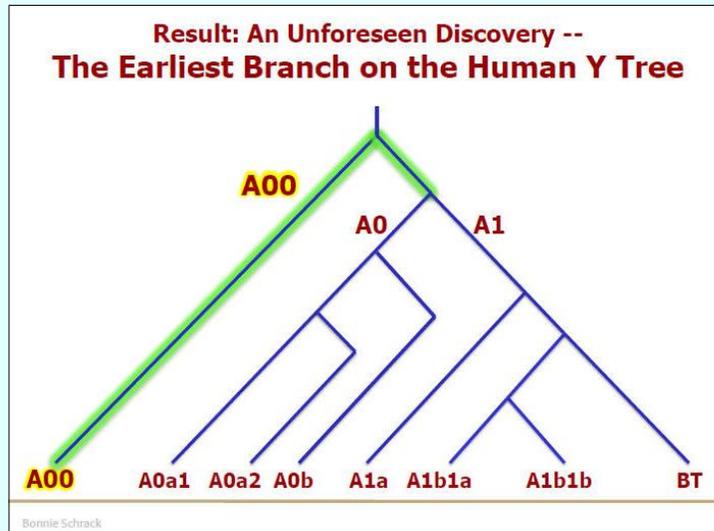

The accepted view is that haplogroups are arranged from group A to J and from J to R, not visa versa. It is believed that Noah's grandson, Gomer, spread over northern Europe and had a son named Askenazi (Gen 10:3). Therefore, these were born of Noah's son Japheth and are not Semetic and very likely were R1b1. Noah's son, Shem, was semetic, and became the ancestor of Eber or Heber (the Hebrews) within the J, J1 and J2 haplogroups. Perhaps the differences in the haplogroups of Japheth and Shem were influenced by the mtdna of their wives and their dna prior to Noah's flood. Again, more research is needed.

Askenazi existed as a tribe in the time of Jeremiah 51:27, after the temple fell in 587 BC. Eventually, the Askenazi were identified as Germans. It is explained HERE. If true, then they were likely haplotype R1b1 like the Vikings, the Norsemen, and the British Isles.

In contrast, there was a Jewish center in Worms, Germany, and others that spoke Yiddish German, and the Jews near Askenaz used Hebrew letters to write in German. After removing to eastern Europe, they were referred to as Askenazi Jews, but they were not R1b1. They were J2, actually Jewish, not just converts to Zionism.

As a final proof that the haplogroups go from A to R, not R to A, here is the accepted beginning from A to A1b1b before the next group mutated into group labeled as B. This is from the labs of FamilyTreeDNA (ftdna.com). It is explained HERE and illustrated here:

First American Settlements Were R1b1, not Israelite

It can be shown that the nine dynasties of Europe are not J1 or J2 or Jewish by clicking HERE. The Vikings were R1b1, and so was Normandy, Scotland, Ireland, Wales and England.

After coming to Virginia, Jamestown, Williamsburg and Richmond were R1b1. The French Huguenots settled in Manakintown near Richmond and were R1b1. Some were German and Welsh. The Germans (Gomer, Askenazi and Scyth), Northmen, and Danish Vikings were R1b1. The Welsh were R1b1 like the Jones' and Hughs'.

In the U.S., the town of Petersburg was founded by Peter Jones of Wales, and Hat Creek and Entry Creek had many Welshmen. Thomas Jefferson was Welsh.

German Town was settled by German immigrants hired to dig for various metals to make bullets, axes and guns.

Defining the "Lost 10 Tribes of Israel" as being America

During the World War II, Adolph Hitler was claiming that Germany was the Master Race that would rule the world for 1,000 years. In 1943, books were being freely distributed showing that King George VI was sitting on King David's throne, and all nations would serve him until Christ comes to transfer the throne to Jerusalem (see Morning Cometh, by the British-Israel Association of Greater Vancouver).

These were not the first to make such claims. Pope Pius XII claimed to be merely holding his seat for Christ, which would be transferred to Jerusalem. The Mormons claimed to be the ten tribes of Israel then existing in early America.

Much time and effort had gone into collecting proofs supporting their theories, and if something disproves their evidence, like y-dna and the FamilyTreeDNA projects, they simply turn the evidence upside down to influence their simple-minded less-informed followers and continue espousing beliefs about a first covenant, second covenant and a more special third covenant. To do this they must interpret many prophecies about Israel's return from Babylon and apply them to modern times. They must deny that both the house of Israel and the house of Judah were in Babylon in the time Ezekiel met them at the river Chebar and ignore the idea that the “valley of dry bones” in Ezekiel 37 is about their return to Israel in the time of Cyrus, and ignore or diminish the idea that Christ has already become a spiritual king and spiritual priest over a spiritual kingdom after the first century. Much more details on this view HERE.

The Mysterious Date of the Exodus – Israel’s Beginnings

The beginning of Israel is a riddle wrapped within an enigma. The Pharaoh tried desperately to wipe Moses’ name from the face of the earth; therefore, his name has been wiped out. Some type of poetic justice.

Immanuel Velikovski, in his Ages in Chaos (HERE), discovered that Egypt’s dynasties were 700 years too long to fit within the chronology found within the Bible; so he moved Ramesses the Great down 700 years to the time of King Nebuchednezzar, about the time the house of Judah went captive into Babylon.

David Rohl, in his Pharaohs and Kings, moved Ramesses down to the time the house of Israel separated from the house of Israel in 931 BC, in the time of Shishack of Egypt.

Thousands of volumes have been published with hundreds of other volumes in their indexes, and one common reference is in I Kings 6:1, which says that Solomon’s temple was founded in the 480th year after the exodus. The exodus was in the first month of the year, and the temple was founded in the second month of the year.

So there were actually 479 years.

The 427-Year Pattern

However, Archaeologist, Doc. Steve Collins HERE says that the exodus was about 427 years before the temple. If so, this would subtract 52 years from the 479 years just mentioned.

Note: A link is found in the “Amarna Letters” (400 tablets). Kings of Canaan were writing to the Pharaoh begging him to send troops because the Habiru (Apiru or Hebrews) were capturing Canaanite cities. Kings of Canaan were of Megiddo, Hazor, and Adonizedek of Jerusalem (early Salem) who led a coalition of five Amorite rulers (Joshua 10:1).

If we add these 52 years to the time between Adam and the flood, that period would equal 427 times 4 (1656 + 52 = 1708). We already know Abraham was called at the age of 75, that is, 427 years after the flood, and the exodus was 427 years after Abraham’s second calling in Haran, when his father died.

Acts 7:2 and Exodus 12:41 tell us Abraham was first called before his father died, when he was in Ur, 430 years before the exodus. This is part of the riddle.

Now we have discovered another pattern, one consisting of 427 years. Even without subtracting and adding the 52 years, there are still 427 x 7 years, that is, 61 jubilees from Adam to the temple and 122 jubilees from Adam to 2022 AD.

We need to face the evidence that biblical chronology includes round numbers and patterns. When was the flood? In Noah’s 600th year. When did he die? During or just after his 930th year, in the 19th jubilee year.
